DECEMBER 2020

Merry Christmas

High home energy bills? Explore the alternatives. Next to mortgage, rent and property taxes, utility bills account for a significant proportion of Canadians' annual household expenses: 2.8 per cent or nearly $2,500, on average.[1] And considering 2020 wasn't an average year, homeowners can expect to face higher utility costs after consuming more heat, electricity and water during months of staying home to help reduce the spread of COVID-19.

For all the challenges and hardships of the pandemic, the home-based isolation experience could have a positive effect on family spending habits. Assuming many people have shelved their plans to vacation abroad or buy a new house or vehicle this year, some homeowners may turn their attention towards making their homes more energy efficient to try and lower future utility costs.

More alternatives are now within reach
 Alternative energy systems operate by consuming renewable resources, as opposed to non-renewable resources such as oil and coal. They've become more attractive to consumers in recent years as advances have been made in extracting energy from resources that are naturally replenished:

- Solar: generating electricity from the energy of the sun
- Wind: for powering electricity turbines
- Geothermal: extracting heat from underground, whether a few feet down or deep beneath the Earth's crust
- Hydroelectric: producing electricity with water-driven turbines
- Biomass: producing electricity or heat by incinerating organic waste

As with the mass production of electric cars, we can anticipate that alternative energy products will become more affordable as their popularity increases in the years ahead. And cost savings are a key motivator for consumers to explore alternative options. After all, any investment in improving your home is a smart one. Energy efficiency can contribute to a home's resale value, support the health of its inhabitants and be a model of responsible living that reduces carbon emissions.

Compared to most countries within the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), Canada has a high share of renewables in its energy supply. About 17 per cent of Canada's energy comes from renewables.[2]

Heating Most homes in Canada use natural gas or oil to heat the premises through forced-air furnaces or boilers and hot-water or steam radiators.[3] Today, a variety of efficient home heating technologies are among the most innovative new ways to avoid using fossil fuels.

One example is geothermal heat pumps, self-contained units that efficiently heat and cool homes and generate hot water. They use standard electronic thermostats and duct systems, making them appropriate for retrofits of standard heating, ventilation and air conditioning (HVAC) systems and are an efficient alternative to furnaces and air conditioners. Because a heat pump transfers heat from the air or the ground rather than generating heat, it can heat or cool a space for as little as one-quarter of the cost of operating a conventional system.[4]

Electricity Solar panels are a reliable, low-maintenance energy source that generates electricity without on-site pollution or harmful emissions. As the technology improves, the cost to produce and install solar panels has become more affordable. In addition to the obvious environmental benefits, the practice of net metering allows consumers to connect their home systems to the local energy grid and deduct the cost of the energy the panels produce from their hydro bill. Installing solar panels can be costly up front, but the benefits will eventually outweigh the cost of relying on a traditional power provider.

Water Replacing various water fixtures in your home, such as toilets, showerheads, faucet aerators and appliances, with newer, more efficient models can reduce the amount of water you consume. Try changing the way you use water, like taking shorter showers and collecting rainwater for the garden, and the savings will be noticeable by the time the next bill arrives.

Not quite living off the grid "Living off the grid" has become a popular phrase to describe the practice of living self-sufficiently without the aid of public utilities. While this noble pursuit is achievable for some rural residents, it's difficult for most urban and suburban dwellers to accomplish. All the same, more homeowners are interested in how they can reduce the residual effect of their energy consumption on the environment.

Since living off the grid remains an impractical option for many, investing in one or two solutions, such as driving an electric car or installing rooftop solar panels, while continuing to rely on local water and sewage services has become a more realistic approach. Even a few small changes can help save money on your utility bills that can be directed towards other expenses, such as paying down debt, investing or replacing a major appliance with a more energy-efficient version.

Assess the possibilities - Until the perfect energy source is discovered, alternatives that have the power to transform our lives and benefit our world are worth a closer look. Thankfully, advancements in technology have put more options on the table than ever before. Those who are interested can consider hiring a professional to conduct a home-energy assessment and begin learning more about the possibilities that could improve the efficiency and cost-effectiveness of your most valuable asset.

Future innovations Advancements in energy production are discovered every day as the need to curtail the world's consumption of non-renewable resources grows more serious. Some new ideas currently in development show great promise and are well on their way to becoming available to homeowners:[5] solar panel roofing tiles, highly insulated, energy-producing windows, refrigerators that use magnetic fields instead of chemical coolants to control temperature, batteries that could supply an entire home's energy needs

Lighting Install ENERGY STAR® certified light fixtures and LED bulbs, which can last 15 times longer and use 70-90 per cent less energy than incandescent bulbs[6] Install motion-sensor outdoor lighting. Turn off lights when not in use, or use programmable timers and dimmer switches

Make your home airtight - Upgrade insulation and air seal areas in your home where air can escape, such as walls, ceiling, floors, windows, doors, ventilation ducts and attics. Install an ENERGY STAR® certified "smart" thermostat to take more control of your cooling/heating needs.

Water Water-saving shower heads use less hot water than baths. Low-flow toilets use less water per flush than regular toilets. Use faucet aerators that expel fewer litres of water per minute. Collect rainwater in a barrel for watering your lawn, garden and indoor plants, and to wash your car

Major appliances - ENERGY STAR® certified appliances run more efficiently. Use your dishwasher's air-dry feature more often. Keep your refrigerator away from heat sources like your oven and direct sunlight. Washing machines operate most efficiently when full (but don't overflow!). Don't overfill dryers to ensure better air flow and reduce strain on the motor. Air-dry clothes and linens when possible. Select cold-water wash cycles to reduce the energy needed to produce hot water

Electrical appliances - ENERGY STAR® certified electronic appliances, such as TVs, computers and monitors consume 25-70 per cent less electricity[7]. Select low power settings wherever possible to reduce electricity usage and extend battery life. If you have baseboard heaters with individual thermostats, set the temperature on each based on your activity in that particular area of the home. Set ceiling fans to turn counter-clockwise to cool you down in warmer months

Is this something Rocanville needs?

Is there someone in the Community that would be willing to step up as an organizer?

Citizens on Patrol Program (C.O.P.P.)

The Citizens on Patrol Program is a community led, police supported Crime Prevention, Crime Reduction program in Saskatchewan.

This program has been in existence for decades. There has been a resurgence in interest in COPP as citizens want to contribute to the safety of their community.

All COPP volunteers patrol in pairs, with their personal vehicle or on foot, and are in direct contact with the RCMP detachment Members who are on duty. They are on the lookout for any suspicious or criminal activity, to record the activity and, where appropriate, to report it to the RCMP. The COPP is another set of eyes and ears for their community and their detachment, which assist in preventing and reducing crime.

Volunteers must be at least 18 years old, not have a criminal record or be involved in an active criminal investigation, and complete and pass a reliability security clearance.

This is a rewarding opportunity to contribute to safe communities, safe homes in your area.

If you are interested in starting a COPP program in your community, speak to your local detachment.

Qualifications

- Minimum 18 years of age
- In good health
- Must pass Police background check
- Good interpersonal skills and communications skills
- Possess positive attitude and ability to work in a team environment
- Ability to work responsibly with minimal supervision
- Ability to work in a professional manner
- Willing to participate in training sessions

Tasks and Responsibilities:

- Be the "Eyes and Ears" of the community
- Patrol the community by vehicle
- Identify suspicious or concerning behaviour and report to Police Liaison Officer
- Maintain awareness of community crime deterrence activities and initiatives
- Assist in increasing awareness and providing crime prevention information to local citizens, businesses, and community organizations
- Keep and maintain proper records
- Follow COP policies and procedures
- Maintain a positive and respectful presence in the community
- Treat all people with courtesy and respect
- Maintain confidentiality at all times

Recruitment, Meetings, and Patrols

Recruitment: Trade shows, other volunteer organizations, ads in local papers, door to door or word of mouth.

Meetings: Meetings should be run as per Roger's Rules of Order. Frequency of meetings are determined by the local group. It is recommended that groups have bylaws dealing with meeting attendance for board members and their AGM. Include training as part of your meeting. A liaison from the local RCMP detachment is part of the group and will attend meetings.

Patrol: Groups set up a patrol schedule depending on the size of the group and frequency/ number of hours the group wants their members to patrol. This can be determined in partnership with the Detachment.

COPP Application

To apply for membership in COPP, a Criminal Record Search Certificate, as well as a Vulnerable Sector Verification is required. Applicants must apply through their local COPP program coordinator. Once the individual is a member of the program, the checks must be re-done every two years. Until security clearance is approved, the individual will not be considered a member.

Provided by F Division: Crime Prevention/Crime Reduction

Want to report a crime but remain anonymous?
Call Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-TIPS (8477), text TIP206 plus your message to CRIMES (274637) or you can submit a tip at www.saskcrimestoppers.com, where you can also view other unsolved crimes.

Dear family, friends and Darren's Nutrien co-workers,

We wish to express our deepest thanks for the outpouring of love by your words of condolences and encouragement, text messages, cards phone calls, flowers, food and generous donations in honor of Darren's memory.

Thank you for the stories and memories we shared. They truly helped our family and highlighted what a special person Darren was.

Sincerely,

Connie Green and family.

The Royal Canadian Legion – Branch #020 would like to thank the people and businesses of Rocanville and community for their support during the 2020 Poppy Campaign. Due to COVID 19 restrictions, our intake of funds was significantly reduced so if you were unable to give a donation to the local branch and would still like to do so, you can mail it to Box 155, Rocanville, Sask. S0A 3L0.

Our Legion Branch plans to raffle a quilt, with a Canadian theme, graciously donated by Nora Fergusson. Tickets will be $5 each and can be obtained from Legion members or at a few local businesses. Watch for the quilt to be displayed downtown. We look forward to your support.

Sincere thanks,

Rocanville Branch #020 – Royal Canadian Legion

Endless Pawsibilities of Rocanville

We are a startup stray cat rescue located in Rocanville. Our mission is to help find appropriate homes for stray kittens and cats. We can take 2 kittens/cats into care at a time.

In order for our organization to succeed we need community help. WE NEED people who can provide foster homes for these animals. Being a foster means you provide a warm and loving environment for these cats. We provide you with all the supplies you need.

We also need people to adopt these cats. The adoption fee includes the cat's first round of shots and the spay/neuter.

We do accept donations. Donations can be supplies or monetary. We do accept e transfers.

If you would like a winter cat shelter, please let us know. We are in the process of building them now. They are free of charge.

We will be doing a 50/50 fundraiser from Nov 1-Nov 30. Drawing will be Dec 1 on Facebook.

Also, for the month of November we will have a donation box set up at the Rocanville Coop grocery store.

We can be reached at epawsibilities@gmail.com, visit our Facebook page Endless Pawsibilities of Rocanville. Our phone number to text is 306-434-6749.

We would like to take the time to say Thank you to all the people who have supported our efforts so far.

Rocanville Dial-A-Van

will resume regular driving hours starting on Monday, October 5, 2020.

All Seniors in the town of Rocanville are welcome to ride the bus on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9:00 am to 4:00 pm.

We can take you uptown, to the Market Garden, grocery shopping, to get the mail, to a doctor's appointment, to the bank, or a hair appointment
all for a return trip of $2.50.

We'll carry your groceries and will drive you from one place to the next. We have a lift if you feel the steps aren't for you.

Please call

(306) 434 6644

to book your ride.

Our drivers are all volunteers and if you feel you could help us by driving one or two days a month, then that would be appreciated.

Helping our Seniors is a great way to make our community even better than it is.
