THANK YOU!

We are pleased to announce that the Summer Program for kids will be running once again this summer! Please join us for an information night on Monday, May 16th at 7pm (side door at the Rec Office). We have many great things planned and look forward to sharing them with you and hearing your input!

Rocanville Arts and Culture Camp

Rocanville Recreation & Economic Development is hiring a summer student to run the Arts & Culture Camp. This camp will be held at the museum following the Summer Program. The Arts and Culture Camp will allow children to explore many different types of art and participate in many cultural activities. Included in the Arts & Culture Camp will be a Living Arts portion. This is where children will go over to the lodge and learn skills such as knitting, quilting, woodworking, canning, painting, gardening, etc. from the elders within the community.

If you are looking for a summer job with lots of unique opportunities and are returning to school in the fall please email your resume to rocanville@sasktel.net or call 645-2164 for more details.

Rocanville Organizing Community Kids (ROCK)

Do you want to make some extra money during the summer but don't have enough available time to have a full-time summer job? ROCK offers flexible employment for youth ages 14-18 that works with their personal schedules. All you have to do is phone in on the days that you are available to get your name put on the list for the day or provide a schedule of the days that you are available. When a job becomes available you will be called in.

We are also in need of people willing to provide jobs for the ROCK program. These could be things such as gardening, mowing grass, picking apples, etc. All you need to do is phone in on the day that you have a job that needs to be done or phone in advance and a ROCK kid will be assigned to your job.

The ROCK program will start in July 2016. The effectiveness of the ROCK program will determine the end date. For more information or to put your name on the list as a worker or job provider please contact the Rocanville Economic Development Office (306)-645-2164

AT THE LIBRARY

Southeast Regional Library 50th Anniversary BBQ!- June 1st- from 4-6 pm. Rocanville Library Board and staff invite you to come out to help us acknowledge our 50th Anniversary with a free celebration! We will be having the Richy Roy Magic Show for all ages from 4 -4:30 pm followed by the BBQ. Everyone welcome.

Perennial Swap- The Library will once again hold a perennial swap on Wed, May 25. from 2-6:30 pm. If you have extra perennials that are overcrowded, or that you don't want in your flower bed anymore, bring them down to the library and trade them for something else! A great way to refresh your perennial beds. And help yourself to refreshments when you come!

Story Time -Story Time is every Wed. morning, from 10-11 pm. Bring along a favorite healthy snack for your children to munch on while listening to a story or two. Then we'll do a craft or activity! No charge.

Mother's Day Craft- The library will be holding a Mother's Day Craft for the children on Wed. May 4th, from 3:30-4:30 pm. Please pre-register by calling the Library or message us on Facebook. No charge.

Full steam ahead!

Accelerate your savings – a plan that includes the right mix of accounts can help you reach your destination faster.

Imagine for a moment that your savings are a locomotive, chugging along a track leading towards your financial future. The engine propelling the train is your income and any money you have coming in. The freight cars being pulled behind are filled with the resources you will need at the stations along your route. Now, suppose each car represents a specific type of account and is emblazoned with a name: TFSA, RRSP, RESP or Non-registered. Each car may contain a variety of investment products, such as stocks, bonds, mutual funds, segregated fund contracts and high-interest savings accounts.

Your train is unique, customized to your investment needs now and in the future. Depending on your situation and requirements, sometimes you'll have more cars; sometimes you'll have fewer. Let's take a closer look inside each freight car to see how it works, when you need it and what products belong inside it, to help ensure you're well equipped for all stages of your journey.

TFSA for accessibility

A Tax-Free Savings Account (TFSA) allows Canadians aged 18 and older to earn tax-free investment income. You don't get a tax deduction when you contribute, but your money grows tax-free inside the account and you can withdraw your money at any time with no tax implications. As a result, a TFSA keeps your money accessible, making it ideal for either short-term or long-term savings goals and as an emergency fund.

The contribution limit for 2015 is $5,500, and unused contribution room can be carried forward to future years. Make sure your investment choices match your time horizon. In other words, if you expect to withdraw your money within a few years, fill your TFSA with stable investments that you can cash in at any time without penalty.

It's important to consider the timing of any withdrawals and re-contributions to a TFSA to avoid penalties. Amounts withdrawn from a TFSA in a given year are added back to your available contribution room for the following year. Avoid re-contributing amounts withdrawn in the same calendar year if you have no more contribution room available. A one per cent per month penalty could apply.

RRSP for retirement

A Registered Retirement Savings Plan (RRSP) is designed specifically to help Canadians build savings for retirement. You get a tax deduction when you contribute, and your money grows tax-free inside the account. You pay tax on withdrawals, but the idea is that those withdrawals will happen in retirement, when your income (and therefore your tax rate) is lower than it is while you are working.

For the 2015 tax year, you can contribute up to 18 per cent of your 2014 earned income, less any pension adjustment, to a maximum of $24,930. Check your most recent Notice of Assessment from the Canada Revenue Agency for your personal RRSP deduction limit, which may include accumulated contribution room from past years.

For many Canadians, retirement is still years or even decades away. If this describes you, choose investments appropriate to your risk tolerance that can deliver the long-term growth you need to support your desired retirement lifestyle. That may mean equity or balanced mutual funds and segregated fund contracts.

RESP for education

If you have children, consider a Registered Education Savings Plan (RESP) to help you save for their post-secondary education. You don't get a tax deduction when you contribute, but your money does grow tax-free inside the account. When the money is withdrawn, to pay for school-related expenses, the investment growth is taxed in the recipient's hands. Because students generally have very low incomes, this often means little or no tax is due.

You can contribute a lifetime maximum of up to $50,000 for each beneficiary. Canada Education Savings Grant (CESGs) match 20 per cent of contributions – up to $500 annually until the end of the year the beneficiary turns 17, to a limit of $7,200 for each beneficiary. Think of CESGs as a guaranteed rate of return on your investment – they can significantly add to the money available to support your children through school.

Your investment choices within an RESP will depend on what the plan allows and the age of your children. If they are within a few years of finishing high school, consider shorter-term investments with less risk. If there are still many years to go before they need to access the money, consider longer-term investments with greater growth potential.

Non-registered for flexibility

Non-registered accounts offer the greatest flexibility, with no limits on contributions or withdrawals. As a result, they can be used to achieve many different financial planning objectives and are an excellent complement to registered accounts.

It's important to note that non-registered accounts don't offer the same tax-free or tax-deferred growth from investment income as available with TFSAs, RRSPs and RESPs. However, they can offer flexibility in managing income-generating investments, which can affect the way income is taxed. For more information, consult your tax advisor.

Speak with your advisor

Your advisor can help you connect the right cars to your locomotive and load them with the right mix of investments for your travels. Whatever your destination, and whatever turns and detours you encounter along the way, having the right investment cargo in your train will help make your journey more comfortable and enjoyable.
