Friday, November 7 & Saturday, November 15

In September, the exercise group at the Prairie View Lodge walked the virtual distance from Tantallon to Welwyn. The miles were achieved by walking in the Terry Fox Marathon as well as adding a few extra rounds inside and outside the Prairie View Lodge. To celebrate this accomplishment, Lil Gagnon arranged for Blaine Norton to drive the Dial-a-van to the Belles and Beaus coffee shop in Welwyn for a fun time playing cards, visiting and enjoying delicious dessert treats. Pat, Marilyn, Toots, Sandra and Willa made everyone so welcome. By the end of October, the walking group will reach Moosomin for a virtual visit to Tim's. The walkers have so far walked 267 miles and plan to continue to keep going through the winter months. The Prairie View Lodge walkers are enjoying the exercises and walking each Tuesday and Thursday morning and will continue to be Forever in Motion. For more information contact Rec Office 306 645 2164

Norman Foote, born Norman Mervyn Barrington-Foote claims his name forced him to develop a sense of humour at an early age. At age 11, Norman's parents gave him his first guitar, a finely crafted instrument from the Sears Catalogue. This set the stage for a lifelong dream. With idols including The Beatles, Hank Williams and Elvis, it wasn't long before Norman switched to electric guitar and performed with garage bands during his high school years.

“Drawing from his own experiences, Norman creates songs and stories & props that delight the ears and eyes. He weaves imaginative word play with great melodies all too great effect.”

When Norman was 20, he left his home in Vancouver, Canada to explore Australia and New Zealand, and made his living as a street performer and songster. Norman first developed an interest in puppetry and physical comedy through his association with a traveling theatre troupe in New South Wales, Australia.

Still hooked on music but enthralled with the art of puppetry and comedy, Norman chose the only feasible solution - to combine all three.

BASIC REQUIREMENTS FOR BLOOD DONATION

IDENTIFICATION Identification with full name and signature, or full name and photograph required.

AGE Between 17th and 71st birthday (regular donor), or between 17th and 61st birthday (first-time donor). To continue donating after their 71st birthday, regular donors should contact Canadian Blood Services prior to donation for further eligibility information.

WEIGHT At least 50 kg (110 lb).

FREQUENCY OF DONATION Minimum interval between blood donations is 56 days.

HEALTH In general good health and feeling well. You should have had something to eat and adequate sleep. You must also meet hemoglobin (iron) requirements (test done at clinic).

SCREENING At the time of donation, you will be asked a number of questions to determine your eligibility.

If You Have...	You must wait before donating...
Had dental treatment (extractions, fillings, cleaning, restoration)	For cleaning or filling: until the day after treatment For extraction, root canal or dental surgery: 72 hours provided there is full recovery
A cold, flu or sore throat	Full recovery
Had ear or body piercing or tattooing	6 months

DONATING BLOOD - A SAFE PROCEDURE

Donating blood does not put you at risk of disease. All needles are sterile, used only once and discarded. The usual blood collection - a "unit" - is about half a litre, or one pint. Your body soon replaces all the blood you donate.

The above eligibility requirements were accurate at the time of printing. Eligibility requirements are subject to change. For complete eligibility requirements, please contact Canadian Blood Services by calling 1 888 2 DONATE (1-888-236-6283).

Call 1 888 2 DONATE

'God Bless Us, Everyone!'

Educational Tours

We're going to Italy and Greece!

Global awareness is more essential than ever for everyone, and the best way to become globally aware is by travelling abroad. Experiencing new cultures opens peoples' eyes to the world and provides valuable life skills to help them prepare for the future.

More and more colleges and universities are looking for international experience on students' applications to set them apart. Travel isn't just educational; it's an investment that gives people an advantage in a competitive world.

With that in mind, I'm excited to announce that the community travel group from Rocanville is traveling on an educational tour to:

Italy and Greece in Easter Break (April) 2015

On this tour, participants will experience new cultures and visit important landmarks such as the Colosseum, Roman Forum, Vatican City, Pompeii, Olympia, Acropolis and much more!

The tour is operated by EF Educational Tours. You can learn more online at eftours.ca by entering the tour number 1443255TS and clicking "view tour". We have also created a Facebook group called Rocanville Europe Group that has more information.

We will be having an informational meeting for ALL participants at 7 PM on November 17, 2014 to prepare for our tour. Anyone interested in joining our group is welcome to attend. Please contact any of our tour leaders for more details.

I'm excited and looking forward to having you on tour!

Sincerely,

Community Tour Leaders:

Tax-planning tips

A lower tax bill means more money in your pocket

Part of good money management means knowing how to keep more of what you earn. Here are some ways you can reduce your income tax bill.

Contribute to a Registered Retirement Savings Plan (RRSP) or spousal RRSP

Contributions made to your RRSP or to a spousal RRSP during the year or within the first 60 days of the next calendar year can be deducted from income (up to your contribution limit). An exception is that the final contribution to your RRSP must be made by December 31 of the year you turn age 71 – but you can still contribute to a spousal RRSP until December 31 of the year your spouse⁽¹⁾ turns age 71.

Keep in mind that contributing to a spousal RRSP in December, rather than in January, means that amounts can be withdrawn without attribution back to the contributor one year earlier than would otherwise be the case.

Tax deductions for RRSP contributions can be carried forward indefinitely, long after your RRSPs are closed. You can choose when to take the tax deductions and even spread deductions over several years to reduce taxable income at retirement.

Contribute to a Tax-Free Savings Account (TFSA)

While the money you contribute to a TFSA is not tax-deductible, as it is with an RRSP, these plans offer tax-free investment growth and tax-free withdrawals. Plus, any withdrawals you make do not affect your eligibility for federal income-tested benefits and credits, such as Old Age Security (OAS) and the Canada Child Tax Benefit. In addition, the amounts you withdraw will be added back to your available contribution room for the following calendar year.

With a TFSA, you can save for short-term needs, as well as long-term goals, such as education or retirement.

Contribute to a Registered Education Savings Plan (RESP)

Contributions to an RESP are not tax-deductible, but the money inside the plan can grow tax-deferred until withdrawn and used to pay for a post-secondary educational program.

Deduct interest and carrying charges

You can deduct the interest you paid on borrowed money that was used to earn income from non-registered investments or from a business⁽²⁾. Also, the fees you paid to manage or administer your non-registered investments can be tax-deductible. However, the charges for safety deposit boxes are no longer deductible.

Claim the medical expenses tax credit

You can claim a tax credit for any eligible medical expenses that were not paid for by a provincial or private plan. If you have private coverage, the premiums you pay also qualify as eligible medical expenses.

Either spouse can claim the tax credit for themselves and/or any dependent children under 19 years of age for eligible expenses incurred in a 12-month period that ends in the taxation year. It's almost always better for the spouse with the lower net income to claim medical expenses (provided he/she is in a taxable position) because the credit is reduced by a percentage of net income.

Claim the charitable donations tax credit

The tax credit for donations is two-tiered, with a greater credit for donations above $200. To maximize the tax credit, spouses can pool their donation receipts or carry them forward for up to five years.

The 2013 federal budget introduced a temporary First-Time Donor's Super Credit (FTDSC). The FTDSC supplements the Charitable Donations Tax Credit (CDTC) with an additional 25 per cent non-refundable federal tax credit for first-time donors of up to $1,000 in donations. Donations must be in the form of cash to qualify for the FTDSC. An individual is considered to be a first-time donor if neither the individual nor the individual's spouse has claimed the CDTC or FTDSC in any taxation year after 2007. The FTDSC is available for donations made on or after March 21, 2013 and may be claimed only once in a taxation year after 2012 and before 2018.

Claim tax credits for students

A student may claim a tax credit for tuition costs of $100 or more paid in the taxation year to attend a post-secondary institution. A student is also entitled to the education and textbook tax credits for each month he or she is enrolled in full-time or part-time studies in a qualifying post-secondary education program.

Part or all of any unused tuition, education and textbook amounts for the year may be transferred to a spouse, parent or grandparent, or can be carried forward to a future year to be used by the student.

A student may be able to claim the interest paid on his or her student loan in the year and/or the preceding five years if the loan was received under the Canada Student Loans Act, Canada Student Financial Assistance Act or a similar provincial or territorial law for post-secondary education. Amounts that are not claimed in the year can be carried forward and claimed by the student in any of the next five years.

Speak to your advisor to learn more about these and other ways to take advantage of tax-saving opportunities.

(1) All references to spouse include common-law partner as these terms are defined in the Income Tax Act (Canada). (2) In Quebec, the deductibility of investment expenses incurred by an individual or trust is limited to the amount of investment income earned during the year.
